

Electronic Reserves: More Services for Your Money

Eastern Great Lakes – Innopac Users Group

September 24, 2004

Selected Resources Discussed During the Presentation:

Rosedale, Jeff, ed. Managing Electronic Reserves. Chicago: American Library Association, 2002.

The Electronic Reserves Clearinghouse.

http://www.mville.edu/Administration/staff/Jeff_Rosedale/. Accessed September 20, 2004.

Hardware and Software:

All paper copies, word processing files, and presentation files (for example, PowerPoint) are converted into pdf files. We use the Adobe Acrobat software to scan in paper copies and convert files into the pdf format. The most recent version is Adobe Acrobat 6.0. We use the Standard release. Academic pricing is available for this product

At Muskingum, we use EPSON Perfection scanners. The most recent we purchased was EPSON Perfection 1670. It works fine with Adobe Acrobat 6.0.

Copyright:

Fair Use, Section 107 of the U.S. Copyright Law -

<http://www.copyright.gov/title17/92chap1.html#107>

Fair Use and Electronic Reserves -

<http://www.ala.org/ala/washoff/WOissues/copyrightb/fairuseandelectronicreserves/ereservesFU.htm>

ACRL Statement on Fair Use and Electronic Reserves -

<http://www.ala.org/ala/acrl/acrlpubs/whitepapers/statementfair.htm>

(ACRL's position in this paper is based on the TEACH Act of 2002. A great overview of this act is available through ALA at <http://www.ala.org/washoff/teach.html>.)

References to Millennium Silver User Manual:

Millennium Media Management – Page #105180

Media Management Window – Page #105216

Viewing E-Reserves Reports – Page #105429

Course Reserves – Page #105292

Brian Kern

Head of Technical Services

Muskingum College

bkern@muskingum.edu

Phone: 740-826-8015